Tsukuba University Festival 2017 (Nur-adib Maspo, MJIT)

During my current attachment at University of Tsukuba, I had a chance to join University Festival 'Soho-sai' 2017. It was a great chance that the event happened during my stay here.

The 3 days festival bring joy to the students as I noticed that students were happy and actively engaged with many kind of activities. There were favourite home country cuisines specially prepared by the international students studying in University of Tsukuba and which represented students home countries. I've tried special dishes from Indonesia, curry from African and Turkeye 'kebab'.

There were also different kinds of performance, the performances were all excellent and I enjoyed watching so much.

Students were practising before performing on the stage. It was near to the next food court of Faculty of Life and Environmental Sciences.

My son and me going around to the stores. This photo was taken on the bridge near to the post office at Tsukuba-shi.
